Herb planter on wheels

Looking to spice up your container garden? Dig out Junior's rusty old Radio Flyer and turn it into a mobile planter that can go from a sun-steeped corner right to your kitchen door. Here's how to get rolling:

STEP 1

To create drainage holes, start by making divots in the bottom of the wagon with a nailset.

Using the divots as guides, drill through the metal with a  $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch high-speed steel bit.

STEP 2

Line the wagon with a 1-inch layer of gravel to improve drainage and keep the holes from clogging.

STEP 3

Add potting soil, stopping 1 inch below the wagon's lip. Plant herbs with similar water and sun needs, and top with mulch. Then wheel to a sunny spot and watch your new garden grow. —GILLIAN BARTH

Big bargains for home goods

For seriously good deals on fixtures and furnishings, sign up for members-only flash sale sites. Many are offshoots of big-name online retailers; creating an account is free, and e-mail alerts make it easy to find sales without aimless clicking. The only catch: limited quantities on goods, and prices that last only a few days. Here, three bookmark-worthy picks. —DANIELLE BLUNDELL
